What makes a community successful?

No question is asked more frequently than this one,
but the answer is actually fairly simple.

The communities that are most successful are those that have grasped the concept that revitalization is not a project with a beginning and an end. A thriving community is a long-term asset that must be constantly nurtured, maintained, and promoted. For success, these activities do not lapse.

The creation of a developed, well-educated, financially stable and sustainable downtown revitalization organization ensures that your downtown or neighborhood is successful for the long-term, not just while you are in a temporary funding program.

Pennsylvania Downtown Center (PDC) is committed to working with your community to help your revitalization effort become a true success.
